Cooking a traditional Yamanashi noodle dish known as "Hoto" is a very fascinating activity. Let's try to cook your own fresh noodles and then enjoy eating them. First of all, knead the flour into a dough and carefully cut the noodles into long strips. Next, the noodles are cooked with vegetables in a miso-based soup.

Finally, enjoy tasting the delicious noodles That you made! Unlike regular udon noodles, Hoto is not chewy, and the dough is seldom set aside to rest. Also, hoto noodle can warm you in cold autumn evenings!
